Web designing

Web designing deals with the process of developing a website. A web designer use images, text, html5, Responsive web design, CSS3, information architecture, colors, fonts and other interactive elements to produce a webpage. Web designers use markup language mostly HTML for creating structure and CSS for presentation.

Total 25 students were actively participating in these events. This event is all about the creativity of students, their ideas, their imaginations and implementation in the given period of time.
